Bombers Demolish Trucks

Knockout Record
200 Red Vehicles
In Greatest Foray
Of Entire Year

SEOUL (AP)—B-26 Marauder bombers last night destroyed 200 Communist vehicles in their greatest truck-busting foray of the year.

The Marauders, ranging far and wide over the Red highway network, brought their nine-day bag to 1,175 trucks. The ceaseless attacks are designed to stem the flow of supplies for frontline Communist troops.

Twelve B29 Superforts, the fly-by-night partners of the Marauders, dropped 120 tons of high explosives on a Red communications center near Sinanju. The target city is on the west coast, 40 miles north of Pyongyang, the North Korean capital.

In daylight sorties, U. S. F86 Sabre jets shot down a Russian-made MIG15 jet. It was the seventh straight day of victory for the Sabres. Their score for the week stands at 17 MIGs destroyed, two probably destroyed and four damaged.

Poor weather grounded Allied warplanes Monday. Weather reconnaissance planes reported rain and snow over much of North Korea.

Communist infantrymen probed Allied lines. There was no report of any major fighting. Ground action Sunday was highlighted by a series of Red harassing attacks all along the bleak 155-mile battlefield.

A U. S. Eighth Army staff officer said the Reds appeared content to feel out the Allied defenses. None of their tentative jabs was aimed at taking any U.N. positions.

The largest Red probe-in-force was launched at Sniper Ridge, war-scarred hill mass on the Central Front. Allied rockets and artillery shells broke up a thrust by 450 Chinese.

The cruiser Los Angeles and the destroyer Swenson poured a rain of fire on Red installations near Kungang. At Wonsan the destroyers Thompson and Seiverling shelled Communist bunkers and shore batteries.

SEOUL, Sunday (AP)—Patrol skirmishes flared all across the 155-mile Korean battle front last night and today as U. N. and Communist soldiers tested defense lines in sub-freezing weather.

The temperature at Sniper Ridge in Central Korea, focal point of some of the war's hottest action, dropped to 17 degrees. South Korean defenders with an assist from Allied artillery beat off Chinese thrusts at Pinpoint Hill and Rocky Point, both landmarks on the ridge.

Moscow Radio Labels US Comics Dangerous

LONDON (AP)—Moscow Radio accused the U. S. today of using a dangerous weapon in Western Europe—American comics.

Charging the Americans with atrocities in Korea through napalm bombs and bacteriological weapons, the Soviet mouthpiece went on to denounce the comics as "yet another crime against mankind."

Moscow said the Americans were "flooding Western Europe with ideological and moral poison in an attempt to corrupt the younger generation in France, Britain and other countries to prepare them as cannon-fodder."

UN Rift Continues On Korea

India Tries Futilely
To Create Harmony
Between US, Britain
On POW Deadlock

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The most serious diplomatic rift between Britain and the U. S. in years continued unabated today despite efforts by India and other countries to close the breach.

Day-long harmony moves were expected, but diplomats held little hope for them.

The two great allies split far apart when the U. S. notified British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden that it could not accept a British-backed Indian compromise plan for ending the Korean prisoner-of-war deadlock unless the proposals should be given a chance as they stand, but the U. S. wants all details spelled out.

India came up quickly with modifications but these apparently did not satisfy the U. S.

The 21 powers which backed an original American resolution held an urgent closed meeting last night at which U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson detailed the American objections to the Indian proposals. The 21 powers apparently failed to find a position which would please both Britain and the U. S.

Feelings at the meeting were tense and afterwards press officers of the British and American delegations were not even polite to one another—highly unusual in diplomatic circles.

Eden stayed away from the meeting but sent his top assistant, Minister of State Selwyn Lloyd. A spokesman said Eden had a "longstanding social engagement," but he went mum when reminded that Eden didn't make up his mind to stay here until last Friday and therefore it was unlikely that he had a New York engagement for a day he expected to be in London.

Acheson was scheduled to speak late today in the U. N.'s 60-member Political Committee, but aides said he might postpone the speech because of fast-breaking behind the scenes diplomatic developments.

Poland was also on the speakers list and some delegates hoped for a swift official Communist reaction to the split between the U. S. and other Western countries.

Moscow newspapers commented yesterday that the British-American differences over the Indian resolution just proved the Communist contention that a major split—and possibly a war—between the U. S. and other Western countries is inevitable. The Soviet press also has made it plain that the Russians do not consider the Indian plan the right solution to the POW issue.

Both British and Americans made it clear that they are not divided on their basic refusal to send back prisoners who say they are afraid to return to the Reds. They differ over what approach is most likely to solve the problem and bring an armistice to Korea.

The U. S. position is that the Indian plan is too vague and could give the Reds a chance to indulge in all sorts of stalling and double talk. They say they have had the experience of negotiating with the Communists at Panmunjom and have learned the necessity of crossing all T's and dotting all I's.

The Indian plan, as revised yesterday along lines suggested by Eden, would:

1. Turn all prisoners held by both sides over to a four-power commission made up of Poland, Czechoslovakia, Switzerland and Sweden. The countries would be responsible for caring for the prisoners and getting them home. The commission would pick a neutral umpire who would sit as chairman of their deliberations.

2. After 90 days the commission would ask a political conference at which the Reds would be represented what to do with the prisoners still on their hands because they refused to go home. If the conference could not agree within 60 days, those prisoners would be turned over to a U. N. group.

Teen Town to Meet
Teen Town Senior Board will meet tonight at 7:30 p. m. at Teen Town. All members are urged to be present as important business will be discussed.

Bank Receives Wooden Check And Never Hesitates to Pay

"Did you ever hear of a wooden check?" asked Gene Strelow at the Sedalia Bank and Trust Company, and he handed over a piece of wood three by 16 by 1 1/2 inches. The check was made out to Dr. Carl Siegel for $28 and signed by J. Harold Seaberg, Home Lumber Company. It was dated Nov. 10, 1952, just like any other check, except it was a little heavier and a little harder for the bank to handle.

It was properly endorsed, too—"For deposit in the Sedalia Bank and Trust, Dr. Carl Siegel."

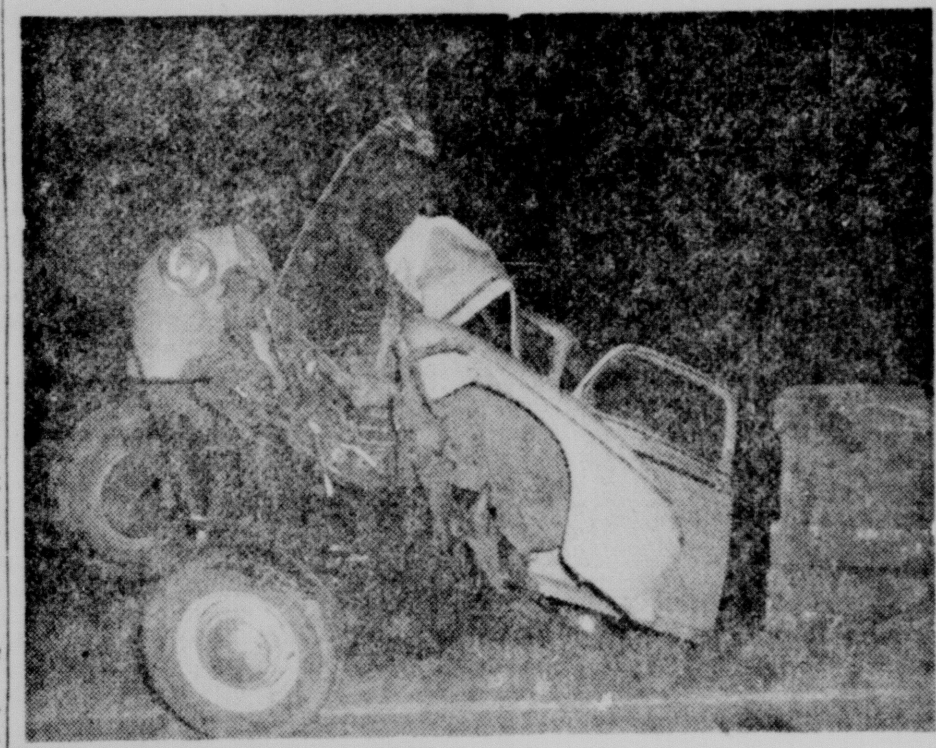

"The law," said Strelow, "doesn't say what a check should be written on. It doesn't say it must be paper, so we had to make payment on it. It is going to be a little problem, though, getting it through the perforating machine to cancel."

It seems that Mr. Seaberg had hay fever. He did considerable teasing at Dr. Siegel's office—then he got the statement with a few notations and decided he would pay off with a wooden check. He just cut off a piece of lumber, made out the check, wrapped it in store wrappings and sent it to Dr. Siegel. It cost a bit more than sending an ordinary check—it didn't go for three cents. Dr. Siegel and his staff were surprised to find what was in the package and had a lot of fun with it. The check arrived last Friday. Dr. Siegel says that it is the biggest check he ever saw—in amount, not size, and he added, it is the best piece of lumber he ever saw come out of the Home Lumber Company.

Dr. Siegel wasn't certain whether it would go through or not but it was taken down to the bank Monday afternoon and was accepted and J. Harold Seaberg's hay fever bill is paid.

Car Hits Bridge Head-on, Young Driver Badly Hurt

The 1946 tudor Ford sedan of Norman Eugene Rayl, of near Longwood, which struck the Cedar Creek bridge early Sunday morning. The vehicle was completely demolished from the impact when it hit the southwest abutment and rail of the bridge. The concrete post shoved the motor back and down and the radiator up against the firewall of the car, while the front end was completely disintegrated. To the left is a picture showing how the motor had shoved through the firewall, and parts of the car almost back to the front seat. A "dolly" truck had to be used by Chamberlin's wrecker to transport the vehicle into town. (Staff Photo)

Norman Eugene Rayl, 18, of near Longwood, was critically injured about 1:45 a.m. Sunday when the 1946 Ford tudor sedan he was driving crashed into a bridge abutment on the bridge at Cedar Creek, about five miles north of Sedalia on Highway 65. Rayl is in the Research Hospital in Kansas City, where it was reported this afternoon his condition remained unchanged.

Rayl was headed north on Highway 65 and rounded the top curve and appeared to have headed almost directly into the southwest abutment and concrete post on the bridge. It was not known if he was attempting to pass a car which he had dozed at the wheel.

The concrete post drove the motor back and down, disintegrated the entire front end, and shoved the radiator back against the fire wall of the car body. The rail of the bridge concrete, about four inches thick and eight inches wide, was snapped in two as were four concrete posts of the stone railing. The car was demolished.

Rayl was taken to the Bothwell hospital where he was given emergency treatment by Dr. J. M. Rodeman and Dr. D. R. Edwards. He was later removed to the Research hospital in Kansas City, being taken there in the Gillespie ambulance.

The youth suffered a fracture of the right ankle, fracture of the right elbow, apparent fractures of the right and left jawbone, possible fracture of the right knee, severe laceration of the chin, puncture wound in the right side of the neck, cuts and multiple bruises about his head and body, and possible internal injuries and concussion.

Both pilot and co-pilot of the C-46 escaped injury. Andrew Prokop, Civil Aeronautics Administration representative here, reported. He said the aircraft apparently struck some trees at the north end of the airport as it approached the runway. Wings, stabilizer, and elevator on the plane were extensively damaged.

Prokop identified the pilot as Albert Sorenson, 40, and the co-pilot as Wendell Fry, 29, both of Chicago. Witnesses described their feat in bringing the damaged plane to ground as remarkable.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman W. Rayl of near Longwood.

It was believed he was enroute home from a wedding reception which he attended at Banner earlier in the evening, when the accident occurred.

Chamberlin's wrecker "as sent to the scene and as the car was b. out of the ditch by the bridge abutment, the front end fell in pieces. It was necessary to get a "dolly" truck, load the car on it and pull it into Sedalia to the Chamberlin Service station.

Weather Balks Alaska Search For Big Plane

Globemaster Vanishes Over Gulf of Alaska, Radio Sound a Clue

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—A faint radio signal was the only tenuous clue today to the fate of 32 men aboard a giant C124 Globemaster which vanished Saturday night over the Gulf of Alaska.

Twenty-four search planes were poised here ready to fan out when weather permits over the 150 miles to tiny Middleton Island, the four engine transport's last check-point. The weather outlook was poor.

The 41 Army and Air Force passengers and 11 crewmen were listed officially yesterday as missing in the continuing plague of U. S. military air disasters through out the world.

Names of the crew were released late yesterday. The passengers have not been identified.

Since Nov. 7, six planes either have crashed or disappeared. They carried 162 men, of whom 82 are known dead, 72 are missing and eight survived. Three of the troop carriers were lost in Alaska, two in Korea and one in Montana.

The weak radio signal, which could have come from emergency equipment carried by the Globemaster, was picked up yesterday by the CAA station at Yakutatka, on the Alaska coastline about 150 miles east of Middleton Island.

The SOS was so dim no bearing could be taken. But authorities at Elmendorf Air Force Base here said the signal on the international distress frequency of 500 kilocycles might have come from "Gibson Girl" radio transmitters attached to the C124's rubber life rafts.

They cautioned, however, against undue optimism, pointing out that the signal was not picked up again and past experience in Alaska aerial tragedies has shown that mysterious radio transmissions are not uncommon and have proved valueless in searches.

No trace of the Military Air Transport Service Globemaster, biggest in military use and capable of carrying 200 men, was found by 11 search planes which went out yesterday despite bad weather.

From Middleton Island to the mainland is about 50 miles of water. Then to Anchorage the route is edged by what veteran fliers call some of the "most rugged country in the world" with glacier covered peaks of 12,000 feet or more.

The Mats Globemaster, big as a five-room house, made its last report over Middleton at 9:47 p.m. Saturday on a 1,400-mile flight to Elmendorf from McChord Air Force Base, near Tacoma, Wash.

The Alaska Air Command confirmed early today the C124, based at McChord, was on a routine flight to Alaska and most of the 41 passengers were stationed in the territory.

The Globemaster was flying at 9,000 feet on schedule six hours and 17 minutes out of McChord when last heard from. It should have reached Anchorage 46 minutes later.

Screen Actors Strike Against TV Film Ads

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A strike against making filmed television commercials has been called by the AFL Screen Actors Guild, starting next Sunday midnight.

The SAG's board of directors stated that strike notices are being mailed today because "of the failure of advertising agencies and producers in negotiations either to accept guild proposals or to come forward with any reasonable offer which could possibly be considered by the guild as a basis for entering into a collective bargaining contract."

The board said the SAG membership voted overwhelmingly for the action against all producers of film commercials for video and advertising agencies in that field.

Children Enjoy Turkey, Cranberry Sauce At Local Nursery's Early Thanksgiving

It is a few days early—but today is Thanksgiving Day for the youngsters at the Melita Day Nursery and their mothers.

Things began to hum early around the nursery this morning and the play room became not a play room but a dining room. The tables were set up and each was centered with a colorful arrangement of bittersweet.

This was a new experience for the children—the very first time they ever ate in the playroom and all morning long they could hardly wait.

Three turkeys were donated and the biggest one and another one were put on to roast while the third was taken to a deep freeze to wait for another dinner.

The smells coming from kitchen were good—the children thought—a mixture of turkey, dressing and pie—pumpkin pie.

There were noises, too, of the rattling of pans, the mashing of potatoes—and those who peeked saw that there would be cream gravy and peas.

The morning seemed very long—on the tables were bowls of bright red cranberries and a few things that could be put on early: The time finally came and about 40 children and nearly as many mothers filed through cafeteria style for a wonderful Thanksgiving dinner, most of which had been donated to nursery by individuals and organizations. There were about 80 in all who went through the line to receive heaping plates of food. Then at the tables the little tots were delighted because at each place was a placecard with their very own names on it. Of course most of them didn't know their names when they saw them in print—but they loved the pictures of the turkeys and lambs on them and

Jet Pilots Intercept President's Airplane

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Jet pilots roared up to intercept an unidentified aircraft yesterday—found it was President Truman's personal plane, the Independence.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson was aboard.

No flight plan for the DC6 had been received here. The ship was reported by spotters and jet planes were sent to investigate.

The Independence was bringing Acheson from Ottawa to New York City for meetings at the United Nations. President Truman was not aboard.

Woman Is Injured Fatally by Train At Crossing Here

Miss Lillian Martha Jackson, 75, of Carthage, was fatally injured about 3:38 p.m. Sunday, when struck by Missouri-Kansas-Texas freight train No. 75 at the Missouri Avenue crossing. She died at the hospital about 5:50 p.m. Sunday.

Miss Jackson, according to Chester Burkheimer of New Franklin, the conductor, was walking southwest down the tracks as the train approached. Burkheimer said he was riding in the cab of the diesel with Engineer Joe Hatton, Fayette, and when seeing the woman began blowing the horns on the engine. He said she looked back over her shoulder two or three times and when the diesel was about fifteen feet away, laid down in the middle of the track.

He said the train was being braked and when the diesel came upon Miss Jackson it was moving about 15 miles per hour. The train pulling 108 freight cars was stopped within thirty or forty feet.

Miss Jackson's coat was caught by the diesel and she was dragged along the ties about the distance it took the train to come to a complete stop.

She suffered fractures of both legs, head injury, possible spine fracture and internal injuries. She was taken to the Bothwell hospital in the Ewing ambulance where x-ray pictures were taken and she was treated by Dr. A. L. Lowe.

A hat check in her pocketbook revealed she came in Sedalia after going to Joplin, then Kansas City, and here on Nov. 21. She registered at the Milner Hotel where she had a room rented for a week.

Miss Jackson walked out of the hotel between 9 and 9:30 Sunday morning and that was the last the hotel people saw of her.

A short time before the mishap, she was seen walking down the railroad tracks by Archie Decker. He said she acted rather peculiar as she walked along the tracks, and wondered why she was there.

The body was removed to the Ewing Funeral Home and today taken to the Knell Mortuary at Carthage, here funeral services are to be held Tuesday. Burial will be in the Park Cemetery at Carthage.

Miss Jackson was born in Illinois, Oct. 9, 1877.

She moved to Carthage when a small girl and spent practically her entire life in that city where she was employed as a bookkeeper until her retirement a number of years ago.

She was a member of the Methodist Church at Carthage.

She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Ralph B. Glaze, Carthage, Missouri; Mrs. Nellie Boyde, Avila, Missouri; one brother, Arthur W. Jackson, Denver, Colo.

Soldier, Girl Die In Highway Mishap

LEBANON (AP)—A 24-year-old army corporal stationed at Ft. Leonard Wood was killed and a woman companion was injured when the pair was struck by an automobile on Highway 66 in Lebanon.

Police identified the dead soldier as Clarence S. Saurage, (home town not available). They listed the woman as Mrs. Effie Cummins, 40, of Lebanon. Saurage was escorting her home from work when the accident occurred. She suffered leg and neck injuries.

Eisenhower said he was in full sympathy with the purposes and objectives of the commission.

Sarnoff told reporters the present secretary of defense, Robert Lovett, had asked him, about a month ago, to head the commission. Sarnoff said he accepted "with the understanding that the next President would be agreeable."

Two Hunters Suffer Accidental Wounds
LEBANON (AP)—Hunting accidents claimed two casualties in the Lebanon area over the weekend.

Injured in separate mishaps were Orville Perriman, 16, of Conway, Mo., and William Covey, 26, of Missouri City, Mo. Perriman accidentally shot himself in the arm, while Covey was wounded in the leg.

Senator Vows Renewal Fight For Race Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said today that during the next Congress he will vigorously renew the fight for a federal law to forbid racial and other discrimination in employment.

Humphrey said he will refuse to soft-pedal the fair employment practices commission (FEPC) issue in the interest of harmony between Northern and Southern Democrats.

"We won't have Democratic solidarity on some issues and this is one of them," he told a reporter. He said he doubts that the rebellion of Southern Democrats against demands by some Northerners for such a law was much of a factor in the Democrat's election reversals this year.

Humphrey heads the Senate labor subcommittee which yesterday released a report which said a survey shows that state and local laws with teeth to forbid job discrimination against minorities have had "healthy" results.

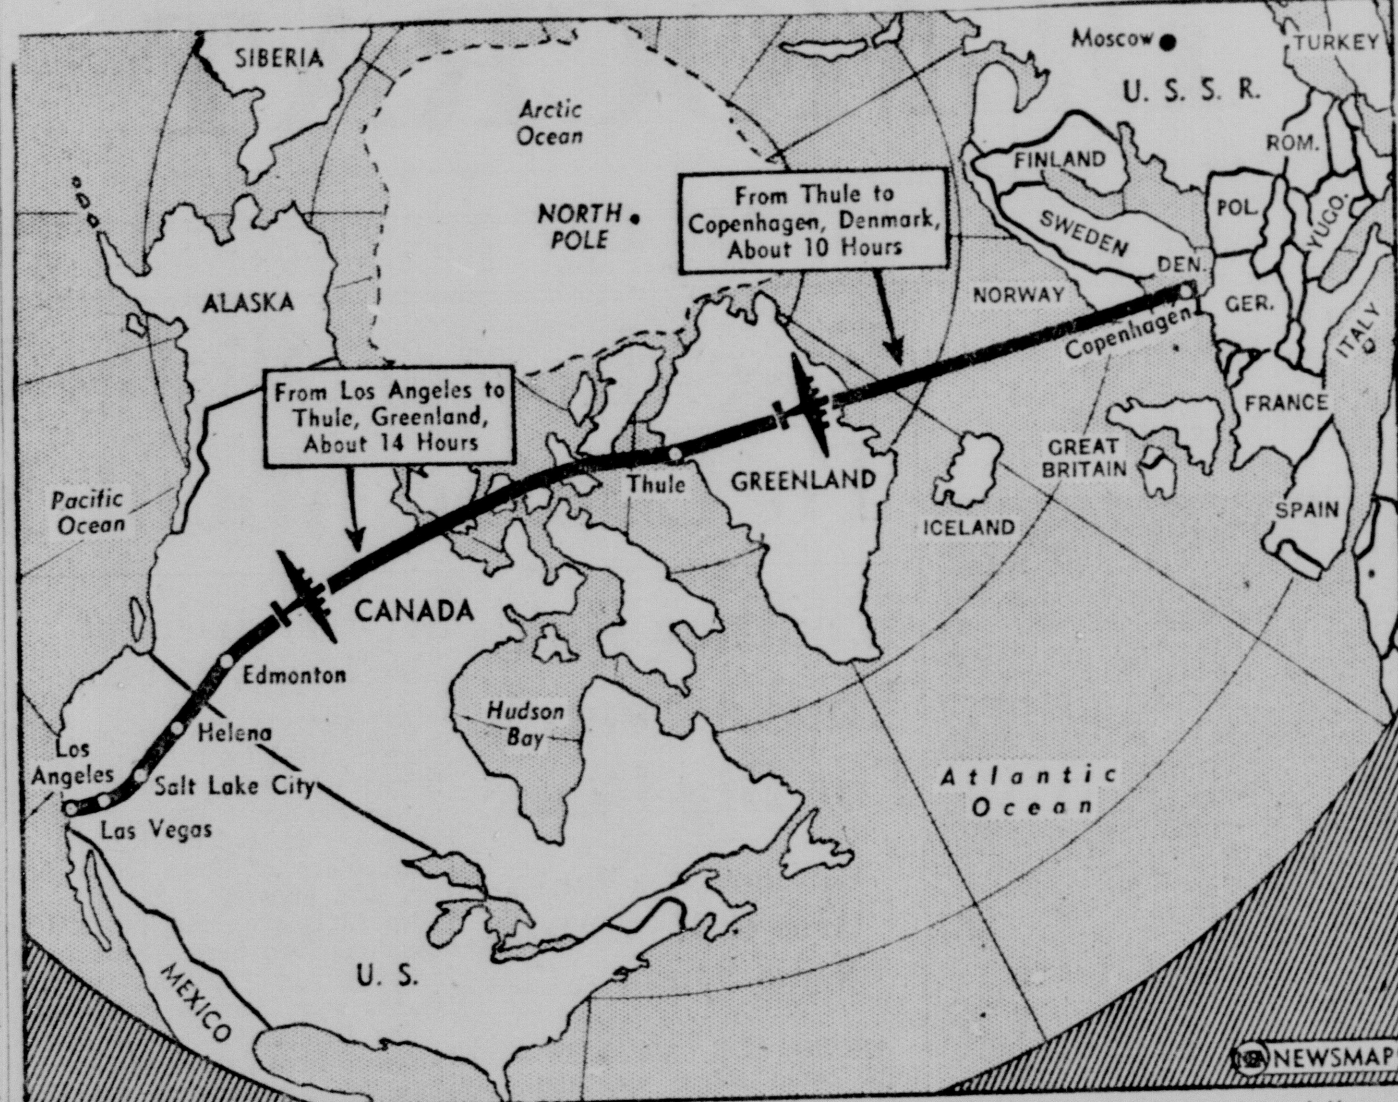

The report was written by Dr. Monroe Berger, assistant professor of sociology at Princeton University, at the request of the subcommittee. Humphrey indicated it would be used extensively by advocates of similar federal legislation.

The report said that experience in seven states and two cities which have had fair employment practices laws since 1945 has indicated the statutes eliminated discriminatory practices with a minimum of dissension.

Berger said the laws in each case were adopted over the protests of employers generally in those areas.

The enforcing agencies, he said, "have moved cautiously in administering the law and their approach has convinced many employers that the law is not intended to harass them x x x and that, indeed, the law benefits them by enlarging the labor market."

Berger's report listed the states as Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, Oregon, Rhode Island and Washington and the cities as Minneapolis and Philadelphia.

He said that of approximately 5,000 cases of alleged discrimination investigated in those states and cities, discrimination was "found and eliminated" in 2,800 instances.

In all but six of the 2,800 cases, Berger said, settlement was by conciliation without resort to court action.

Chances of House approval of a voluntary type of fair employment law are viewed on Capitol Hill as good, although even this version might not pass the Senate. A compulsory federal FEPC is considered as dead as ever.

Rep. McConnell (R-Pa.), who becomes chairman of the House Labor Committee in the new Republican-dominated Congress, said yesterday he would not oppose a voluntary law "but certainly not a compulsory FEPC."

Ancient Sea Wall Found RAVENNA, Italy (AP)—Fishermen dragging nets along the Adriatic coast north of here found what is believed to be the now-submerged sea wall which sheltered ancient Rome's Adriatic fleet.

The fishermen said they could see almost 100 feet of the huge wall jutting up through the sandy bottom a mile and a half offshore in 25 feet of water. The location is just south of the shifting mouths of the Po River, where imperial Rome's fleet guarding the upper Adriatic is believed to have based in the time of Caesar Augustus.

Justice Experts Fight Deadline on Alien Law

WASHINGTON (AP)—Working against a rapidly nearing deadline, Justice Department experts today continued their efforts to draft regulations for dealing with aliens under the new immigration law.

The new law, known as the McCarran-Walter Act, becomes effective Dec. 24, just one month from today.

Atty. Gen. James P. McGranery, who has described the new statute as badly organized, contradictory and possibly unconstitutional in some respects, said over the week end he hopes to have the revised regulation ready sometime around Dec. 14.

A Democrat class ad will do it.

Most Farmers Now Covered By Social S.

(This is one of a series of articles on old-age and survivors insurance under the Social Security Act. These Articles were prepared by the Social Security office at 511 South Ohio, Sedalia.)

Since the beginning of 1931 a good portion of the persons who work on farms regularly have been covered under the Social Security Act for old-age and survivors insurance benefits. Those who have been covered have been able, through social security taxes shared by them and their employers, to build toward insurance protection against loss of income in old age. Also, they are building protection for their families in case of their untimely death.

Not all farm workers are covered, and able to have this insurance protection for themselves and their families.

For the agricultural worker to be "regularly employed" he must first work continuously for a farm employer throughout a calendar quarter (A calendar quarter is a three-month period starting January 1, April 1, July 1, or October 1.) He will then be "regularly employed" in the following calendar quarter if he works at least 60 days for a least $50 in cash wages. He will continue to be "regularly employed" in the following calendar quarter if he earns at least $50. If he works on fewer than 60 days in a quarter, he will not be "regularly employed" in the next quarter. To be "regularly employed" again, he must work for the same farm employer continuously in a quarter.

Road Named 'Marilyn'

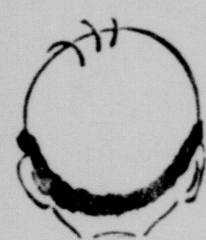

SEOUL (AP)—Two miles of dirt road in a sector of the U. S. First Corps begins with a sign: "Marilyn Monroe Stretch". Twenty-three curves later, another sign reads: "See why?"

this quarter will not be a covered quarter. The following quarter may be a covered quarter if he remains with the employer and meets the 60-$50 test.

There are a few things that we should keep in mind about the coverage of farm workers besides the fact that they must be regularly employed. First of all, only cash wages can be used in counting whether a person has earned the necessary $50 in a quarter. Second, only farm workers are covered, not farm operators working for themselves. We should also remember that domestic workers on a farm operated for profit are treated the same as other farm workers to determine if they are covered.

Like all other workers who are covered by the Social Security Act, farm workers should have social security numbers. You can get your number from your social security office at 511 South Ohio, Sedalia, Mo. You can also get an application for a number from your post office. The social security office will also give you a booklet describing how you pay and what your rights and duties are.

Farm operators who have regularly employed help should get in touch with the social security office to find out just what they have to do to get this protection for their employees. If you write the office or call 450, they will be glad to send you all the forms you need to make sure that you are registered as a farm employer.

Corn Favorites Of North And South

Corn has been called "America's sweetheart" because it's such an important commercial crop and such a good eating vegetable. Although the fresh corn season is short, canned corn has taken first place as our favorite vegetable and is widely used in regional dishes in all corners of our country.

Here are two versions of typical North and South main dish corn favorites:

Corn Dumpling Dinner

2 tablespoons shortening
1/4 cup chopped onion
1/2 pound ground beef
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 No. 2 can tomatoes
1 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 tablespoon shortening
3/4 cup milk

Melt butter; add onion and cook until tender, but not brown. Add meat and cook, breaking with a fork until browned. Remove meat; reserve. Add flour, salt and pepper; stir to a smooth paste. Add tomatoes and cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Add corn and meat; heat to serving temperature. For dumplings, sift together flour, salt and baking powder; cut in shortening with two knives or pastry blender. Add milk; stir only to moisten. Drop by spoonfuls into corn mixture. Cover tightly; cook over low heat 12 minutes without removing cover. To serve, remove dumplings with slotted spoon on warm platter. Turn corn mixture into serving dish; place dumplings on top. YIELD: 4 servings.

Chicken Corn Bake

3 eggs, separated
1 cup milk, scalded
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 cup diced cooked chicken
1 1/2 cups soft bread crumbs
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon Tabasco
1 1-lb. can yellow cream style corn
Beat egg yolks. Add butter; stir until melted. Add chicken, bread cubes, dry mustard, salt, pepper and Tabasco. Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry; fold into corn mixture. Turn into a 10x6x2-inch casserole. Bake in a slow oven (325°F.) 40 to 45 minutes, or until firm. YIELD: 6 servings.

Teacher Who Killed Woman Led 3 Lives

READING, Mass. (AP)—Respectable Murdock MacDonald, 26, who lived a triple life of devoted father, Sunday School teacher and weekend burglar, was charged with murder today in the slaying of Mrs. and Mrs. O. Stanley Porter.

The six-foot-three-inch ex-convict signed a statement yesterday admitting the double slaying after re-lays of investigators questioned him for three days.

District Attorney George E. Thompson said MacDonald told interrogators he fired two shots at Mrs. Esther Porter, 57, and emptied his gun at her 60-year-old husband in their own home the night of Nov. 8.

Thompson quoted MacDonald as saying he killed both by the light of his flashlight after he had entered the darkened home at about 8:30 p. m. and found they were in bed in the bedrooms he intended to ransack.

MacDonald was quoted further as saying that the slayings came on his eighth and last housebreak in this quiet, residential community about 12 miles from his Boston home.

He pleaded innocent in Woburn district court today and was taken to the East Cambridge jail to await grand jury action without bail.

Under Massachusetts law, a lower court cannot accept a plea of guilty in a first degree murder case. A higher court trial is mandatory.

Police quoted MacDonald as saying: "I wish they had caught me before I did it."

"I really didn't mean to kill them. I really don't know what happened. But what difference does it make. A year from now I'll try whether I mean to do it or not."

"The mind is a funny thing. The police had nothing on me. The only reason I told them I did it was because of something inside me. Yes, it's a funny thing. I could have gone back to prison for violating parole. I know that."

A left door on the cab was damaged.

The grandmother, Mrs. Milburn, fell on the child to keep the dog from getting to her, and the dog took several snaps at Mrs. Milburn but each time missed.

The child was treated at the Bothwell hospital by Dr. C. Gordon Stauffer.

The Conoco Service Station, Main and Missouri, was broken into sometime early Sunday morning according to a report made to the police. Five tires were reported as missing from the station. The meeting was called by the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce and the Sedalia Food and Beverage Association of which F. B. Burger is president, at the request of Col. Advocate Stepped-Up Korean War

WASHINGTON (AP)—A stepped-up war in Korea was advocated yesterday by two top Americans while a third disclosed that the South Korean Air Force was being strengthened.

The statements, all made in Radio or television programs, included:

1. Rep. Joseph W. Martin (R-Mass.), the next speaker of the House, urged that Japan be encouraged to enter the conflict against North Korean Communists. He also suggested that Chinese Nationalists on Formosa be brought into the fight.

2. American Legion Commander Lewis Gough called for an all-out assault by free Chinese forces against the south China mainland, coupled with a twin-pronged Allied offensive in Korea.

3. Secretary of the Air Force Finletter said jet planes soon will be given the South Korean Air Force, which he said is being developed. So far, he said, the program has been delayed for lack of training planes.

Martin predicted in a radio interview that something will be done soon — he didn't say what — to "change the stalemate we are fighting in Korea."

Entry of Japan into the fight—as he recommended — presumably would require a change in that nation's postwar constitution which does not provide for armed forces.

Gough, who toured the Far East in October and reported to Eisenhower last week, said in a television interview that the general was "very interested" in his recommendations for the double offensive.

The legion commander said Chiang Kai Shek's Nationalist Chinese forces on Formosa now have almost 600,000 troops which he said are in "wonderful shape."

Dixie Digs Out From Snow Cover As Sun Shines

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The big Dixie snow has largely melted under warm sunshine, but communications snarled by Friday's 18 to 22-inch fall were still spotty early today.

Most trunk telephone and telegraph lines into this city were back in service by yesterday afternoon, but many mountain points to the east were still blacked out early today.

Hard-working linemen have restored power service to thousands of homes, but a few families depending on electricity for heating and cooking had to spend a third night with relatives.

Otherwise life appeared to be returning to normal in the mountainous four-state area where Tennessee borders on Kentucky, Virginia and North Carolina.

Man Fires at Box, Kills Boy Inside

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A young boy playing in two large cardboard boxes with a companion was fatally wounded yesterday by a man who told police he had fired at the boxes for "target practice."

The boy was Raymond Schwarzen, 14, of suburban Lemay. He was pronounced dead at St. Louis County Hospital.

Sheriff's Deputy Ollie Lederberger said Raymond and his playmate, Richard Roughton, also 14, had sealed themselves within the boxes in a quarry near their home. When they heard some shots they scrambled out of the boxes.

Richard said Raymond got out first and he found him sprawled beside the boxes, softly mumbling: "help...help."

Lederberger said the man who fired the shots was Chester Clark, 27-year-old truck driver. Clark was held for the coroner.

Clark told Lederberger he spied the boxes while walking in the quarry with his brother-in-law, Charles H. Longo, 25. Clark said he fired three times with a .22 caliber rifle, but stopped when he saw a boy emerge.

Clark and Longo carried the wounded boy to the edge of the quarry and went for help.

One sign that went up yesterday like wild flowers around the city, Some were more than 100 feet long.

One sign that went up yesterday came down today. It read "Give the Communists Hell, Ike." Mayor Kim ordered it replaced because "it is impolitic to call such a big man by his nickname." Its replacement was a formal "Strengthen ROK Forces."

Kim said he did not know the date of Eisenhower's arrival but the entire week has been set aside as Welcome Week.

Gen. Clark said there was nothing special about his trip but "naturally I will discuss arrangements with Gen. Van Fleet for the President-elect's visit. We are looking forward to seeing him."

Clark said he would be in Korea for a couple of days.

Seoul Buzzes With Welcome Preparations

SEOUL (AP)—Battered Seoul donned her fairest raiment and covered her war wounds with bunting today. Nerve-twitching excitement swept this South Korean capital as it prepared a giant welcome for U. S. President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Nobody seemed to know when he would arrive, but everybody was getting ready.

Gen. Mark Clark, accompanied by the British and French ambassadors to Japan, flew in from Tokyo. Clark said he would confer with Gen. James A. Van Fleet, U. S. Eighth Army commander, on arrangements for Eisenhower's visit.

Around the city, workmen hurried to complete 20 huge arches. Seoul's Mayor Kim Tai Sun ordered the work finished today. He has scheduled two monstrous demonstrations — tomorrow and Thursday—whether Eisenhower is here yet or not.

Rickety streetcars clattered through the streets draped with huge banners proclaiming a welcome. Storekeepers covered their windows with American and Republic of Korea flags. Ill-clad urchins skipped along, waving tiny flags at passersby.

There was a deadly serious note too.

South Korean Army troops and police threw a guard around and through the city. Metropolitan Police Chief Yoon Myung Hoon said strict security measures would be enforced until after Eisenhower leaves.

Ike Will Talk With Line GIs, Says Bradley

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of staff, says President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower is going to talk with the front-line rifleman as well as the generals on his Korean tour.

Bradley, guest of the American Broadcasting Company's radio-television show "Junior Press Conference," yesterday, said Eisenhower plans to go close enough to the front line in Korea to interview the "soldiers, sailors and airmen themselves."

Asked if he didn't consider it simpler to bring back Gen. James A. Van Fleet, Eighth Army commander, and other field officers to brief Eisenhower, Bradley replied a briefing of the President-elect by the Korean commanders here would not be "like getting first-hand information."

"Furthermore," he said, "Gen. Eisenhower is not going to talk only to those gentlemen. He is going to talk to division commanders, lower commanders, and even a bunch of the soldiers, sailors and airmen themselves."

Bradley also hinted that the U. S. top command is keeping an open mind on the question of using atom bombs in Korea. Pointing out there are no real strategic targets in Korea and not sufficient tactical targets for such weapons, he added:

"Now if they (the Communists) should mass against us for an all-out attack, you might be tempted to use it."

The general said he could see little value in the Indian proposal for repatriation of a prisoner of war in exchange for a Korean as a means of settling the Korean truce negotiations deadlock.

"If we can't solve this," he said, "during a military truce talk where we are putting military pressure on them and where it is in their interest to settle it, we think there is less chance of their agreeing to it in a political conference."

Roberts Denies Need for Probe Of Newspapers

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Roy A. Roberts, president of the Kansas City Star, said last night that the "notion of newspapers setting up a commission to investigate newspapers is tommyrot."

He referred to a resolution adopted Saturday in Denver at the national convention of Sigma Delta Chi, journalism fraternity. The resolution called for a survey of press coverage of the national election.

Roberts told Missouri and Kansas editors, here for an Associated Press meeting, that such a survey is unnecessary and meaningless.

"It is the integrity, honor and character behind a newspaper which count," he said. "And if you don't have those qualities in your inner soul, all the investigations and surveys in the world can't put them there."

"The test of a newspaper is what the community thinks of it. No publication will live unless it gives the community the service to which it is entitled."

"In recent years it has seemed that many newspapers desire the praise of other papers or distinguished committees and individuals. Remember, flattery or kudos never built a newspaper. The confidence of the people who read it are responsible for its success."

"If the newspapers were to investigate themselves the public would neither like it nor buy it. If we hired an outside agency for such a purpose—what would that get us? Certainly no results which would be constructive or meaningful."

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP)—The bloodiest weekend yet in this terror-stricken British East African colony's Mau Mau war ended today with a toll of 21 dead, including a retired commander in the British navy.

Police, searching for Mau Mau terrorists, fired on a menacing job of Kikuyu tribesmen yesterday at Kirawa in the Ft. Hall reserve. Fifteen negroes were killed on the spot and 27 wounded. Five have died subsequently.

Comdr. Ian H. Meiklejohn, 56, and his 50-year-old physician wife were attacked at their remote farmhouse at Thompson Falls, 100

Odds and Ends

The woodwork needed to be varnished and so the housewife went to the place where she had a can of varnish, opened it up and varnished the woodwork. It really looked beautiful—had the nicest shine and she was very proud of her work—but, after a time when it should have been dry it wasn't. In fact, it never dried.

Then the woman made a startling discovery—the varnish on her woodwork was not varnish at all—she had smeared her woodwork with molasses—H.L.

"I'm going to put up the storm windows today," a man told his wife. "And when I get them washed they are going to shine so bright and pretty. I'm going to put Spick and Span, Oxydol and vinegar in the water."

He went down into the basement and in a short time his wife heard him yelling up at her—"Oh, my," he said, "You should see what I have done."

She held her breath—she could just see all the white paint off of those storm windows from the stuff he had mixed up to wash them—and finally she said: "What did you do, get the paint off those windows?"

"No," came the answer. "You know the vinegar I put in here—well it wasn't vinegar—it was maple syrup"—H.L.

It pays to read and follow directions most of the time, but not always. A prospective draftee dutifully filled out his selective service forms and thought no more of it. As far as he knew, he hadn't missed any instructions.

A few days later he received a call from the draft board asking him to appear for a discussion. Thinking perhaps he had been drafted already, he appeared before the board with misgivings.

But instead of being informed that he was now in the army, he was questioned intently about being a conscientious objector. There was his signed statement, along with all the other selective service forms he had filled out, and the board wanted to know about it.

A short while later he walked out with a sigh of relief, and the board members tried hard to keep straight faces as they went on to other business. You could hardly blame a man for following instructions, even if he did take them to heart and simply put his signature everywhere he saw the words "Sign here." Case dismissed.

The Rumor Mill

The Washington Merry-Go-Round Truman's Version of His Private Talk With Ike

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1952, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON — What Harry Truman told Dwight D. Eisenhower and vice versa is known directly only to the two men themselves. But what is known is what President Truman told intimates he said to Ike.

Both men were obviously nervous before and after their interview. One friend who talked to Truman just before he saw Eisenhower, noted that he looked fidgety and "dropped some papers."

Eisenhower also looked nervous and wiped perspiration from his forehead after the conference. The version which the President gave one of his closest friends also indicates that the two men were a little tense at first. But he broke the ice by telling Ike something like this:

"I've been in politics for 40 years. Sometimes you win and sometimes you lose. That's politics. "Sometimes you have to say some harsh things in politics, because everyone's out to win. But let's forget all that.

"The only important thing is the future. I want to help you in every way. I want you to have as much assistance as we can give you between now and January 20. "I only wish I could have been briefed before I took this job. President Roosevelt's death hit me like a thunderbolt. I didn't even know he was ill. I had only talked politics with him, and hadn't even attended a cabinet meeting. I don't want you to go through that."

Truman pointed to a sign on his desk which read: "The buck stops here."

"Every government official has a boss to whom he can pass the buck — except the President," he said, according to the account given by a friend. "But when it gets to the President, he has no one to pass the buck on to. The buck stops here!"

Second Conference
Mr. Truman had also prepared for the President-elect a series of loose-leaf notebooks containing copies of all his executive orders, reports on defense production and charts showing exactly the amounts of production achieved in every strategic material. He told friends that he hoped these would be of value to Eisenhower and he certainly wished someone had prepared such reports for him when he took office in 1945.

When Eisenhower and Truman appeared in the cabinet room a minute or so later they were smiling and appeared to be congenial. At this second and enlarged meeting, Secretary of State Dean Acheson did most of the talking.

One important point he made was that, unless Eisenhower made some reassuring statement about continuing the present policy for Europe, the governments of France and Italy might fall.

Eisenhower interrupted at this point to say that he had already made one such statement, but he did not elaborate as to what statement he referred to.

Acheson also said he was "unhappy" about the split between the United States, Canada, France and England over the Korean proposal on Korean prisoners of war, but said he felt that our differences could be repaired — though he did not indicate any approval of the Indian proposal.

Nato Meeting On Schedule
He also discussed the December 15 meeting of the North Atlantic Pact nations originally scheduled to make important decisions on army strength for the next two years. Britain and France want to proceed with the meeting as scheduled on December 15, though because of the changeover of administrations in Washington, no important decisions will be made.

Secretary of the Treasury Snyder gave a report on the finances of our allies, warning especially of the economic predicament of France and Italy. England, he felt, was not in such bad shape.

Secretary of Defense Lovett talked chiefly about Korea and defense production. The latter was only domestic question discussed during the entire conference.

Neither President Truman nor General Eisenhower did much talking during the conference. It was purely a briefing session, with little opportunity or necessity to talk.

When Eisenhower came out of the grim and irritable manner noted by reporters was probably because he was surrounded by newsmen. He had expected a military aide through which to talk, and remarked that he thought things had been outrageously handled.

Illinois' big, affable Sen. Paul Douglas slipped off to the Indiana dunes to rest up from the political campaign but spent his first day battling forest fires. He was stretched out for a long nap when the alarm was flashed that volunteers were needed to help stop a spreading forest fire. An ex-college professor who joined the Marines at the age of 50, Douglas is now 60 years old. But he stood in the fire line for four exhausting hours.

The furs, described as land otters, were gifts of the mayor of Peking Customs officials on duty, who said the fur was a new one for them, were stymied in trying to value them for import duty purposes when the women arrived with them yesterday. So the coats were impounded for a check by experts.

Murder she yelled

By Joseph Shaffit

XXXI
MIDGE was struggling with the schedules when we hit the village. I made a quick circuit of the train stop and the drugstore that served as the bus stop. We found no sign of Dave. I parked, grabbed the timetables and ran through them. The next thing scheduled was a bus due into Stroudsburg at 2:50, continuing on for New York at 3:05.

I wiggled the car through the criss-crossing swarms of souvenir-shoppers, got clear, and streaked into the broad concrete highway that unrolled down the mountainsides to Stroudsburg.

"I wish I had a gun," I said. Midge gave a slight sniff. "Why do you need a gun, with all your muscles?"

"I want to give the other guy a gun to make things a little more even."

I hoped Healey was hot on my trail. I wanted some law around, some armament. I jammed the accelerator down to its roots and put my elbow on the horn and kept it there. If I'd done that at any other time, a police car would have been on my tail in 20 seconds. This time, nobody heard me.

"I can't figure you out. I go chasing desperate characters just to indulge you, and you give me a hard time."

She didn't answer. I was too busy shoving the paint off other cars to look at her.

"Maybe there still hasn't been enough excitement for you—maybe you're still bored," I said. "Tell it to the other girls, will you?" she flashed at me. "Your voice thrills them."

"Nah, they're used to it—it doesn't give them a quiver any more."

"Blow the horn again, will you, please? I'm much rather hear that."

WE were there in a moment—the curbside bus station. Two buses were waiting there. It was 3:02, three minutes before departure time. I parked behind the last bus and hopped out. The passengers were scattered along the sidewalk, smoking or chewing the last of a quick lunch. Dave wasn't among them.

I stepped up into the second bus. Only three passengers were in there. The seat second from the last contained a newspaper, stretched wide in the air. The only thing visible behind it was a hat. A man's felt hat, perfectly horizontal.

I walked quietly up the aisle, just past the seat, and slapped the shoulder behind the paper. "Got you!" I said.

Dave's shoulder turned to butter under my hand. The paper rustled wistfully down around his feet. I felt along his pockets, found no gun. "Get your luggage and let's go," I said.

He reached up on the rack and pulled the square suitcase down and faced me for the first time. If he was surprised to see me instead of a cop, he didn't show it. His eyes looked as if they were coated with shellac.

I piloted him to the door and out past the goggling bystanders. Midge ran ahead of me and opened the door of the station wagon. I pushed Dave into the front seat and told Midge to get behind him. I gave her a jack handle. "Crown him if he moves a whisker," I said. "I don't need a diagram," she said.

I pulled away from the curb and headed into Main Street. "I confess everything," Dave mumbled.

The State Police sub-station was close by. Inside, at the complaint desk, a trooper was typing. Dave seemed to wilt completely at the sight of the uniform.

"This is the man Sergeant Healey is looking for," I told the trooper. "His name is Dave Fields."

"I confess everything," Dave said to the trooper.

"I wanted to do something for my brother—to put him on his feet so he could help out the family. It's my mother—she's always worrying about him. I did it mostly for her. . . ."

"Tell us how you did it," I prompted.

"I went in Kemmer's place to find something with his name on it. I broke the lock on his trunk and got out some old checks so I could copy his signature. Then I went to that room upstairs from the dance floor and typed out a will."

"When did all this happen?" I said.

"BETWEEN 3 and 4 a.m. While all those people were around the office," His gaze still stayed on the floor. "I first found out about it when I was woken up by people talking in the hall about what happened over in the office. They said Kemmer looked as if he was gone and Eddie was hurt—they didn't know how serious—and got the idea all of a sudden that if Kemmer didn't leave a will, it would be a nice thing for Eddie to get the money. I knew there might be a real will, but there was no harm in trying, as long as no one knew I did it. But while I was coming out of Kemmer's place, some man was walking across the field and I was afraid he saw me. I kept thinking later that if the police ever found out this was a manufactured will and they started looking for who did it, the man would say he saw me coming out of Kemmer's place. So I got that girl Sally Ann to say I was with her till 4 o'clock, in case anybody said they thought they saw me, we could say they must have made a mistake in the dark."

"Okay, Dave. Now let's go back to the very beginning, so the man can take it all down in order. Start with the murder."

Dave looked at me with deep surprise. "I didn't do THAT! Is that what you wanted me to confess?"

Hal Boyle's Column--

Two Years Ago Today Allies Started End-the-War Offense

NEW YORK (AP)—As the veil of secrecy descends on Gen. Eisenhower's projected visit to Korea, many a veteran of that conflict must look at the calendar Monday with wry memories.

For it was just two years ago that the U. N. forces there launched their great "end-the-war" offensive. The war was five months old then. It will be 29 months old Tuesday.

Few great drives in military history have opened with more public optimism—and more private doubt—than the U. N. attack that began in the early morning hours of Nov. 24, 1950.

The optimism centered at the Tokyo headquarters of Gen. Douglas MacArthur. The doubt lay in the minds of the frontline commanders. They were uneasy.

The reason: They didn't know the size of the enemy before them.

The goal: The Yalu River, dividing North Korea and Manchuria.

The big question: Had the shattered North Korean Army been reinforced by only 60,000 Red Chinese "volunteers," or did a massive Chinese force wait like a hidden cat in the frozen hills between the Allied line and Manchuria?

Deep-penetrating patrols had failed to yield the answer to the enemy's strength. A division chief of staff looked at the war map in his tent and shook his head as he told correspondents:

"Gentlemen, I've been studying these maps for a quarter of a century, and this one doesn't tell me what I want to know."

A general was so fearful of ambush that before the attack started he issued orders that every vehicle in his division retain a basic supply of "bug out gasoline."

Enough to sustain a retreat if necessary. Another general, said pessimistically:

"The Reds have nothing to lose and all to gain by keeping the Chinese fighting us."

The average doughboy, however, leaped off with a mixture of dread and joy. He didn't know what foe he would meet, but he was tired of standing still, and the general feeling was, "Let's get it over with." And there was also that magic rumor spreading like wildfire through the lines:

"They say we'll be out of here by Christmas if we make it to the border."

Ten of the U. N.'s 19 divisions struck out across a frozen wilderness of mountains and ice-covered

DAY AND NIGHT—There's more than snow falling in Korea. Day and night, around the clock, United Nations artillery is pounding hill positions held by the North Korean and Chinese Communist forces. At top, an 8-inch howitzer fires on enemy positions on the Triangle Hill sector of the front. At bottom, a battery goes into action during the night. Artillery duels are stepping up as troops begin to dig in for the winter.

N. Y. Shopping By Helicopter?
NEW YORK, (AP)—A midtown Manhattan department store is considering turning its extensive roof into a landing field for helicopters of shoppers from the suburbs.
William M. Holmes, president of James McCreery and Co., displayed on the store's fourth floor a model of a commuters' helicopter. Engineers say the roof is big enough to accommodate them.

There is one physical obstacle however. Across the street is the Empire State Building, world's tallest, whose television transmitting tower was originally constructed as a dirigible mooring mast. Up and down-drafts, not to mention swirling lateral currents, were usually so violent that no dirigible ever approached it and pilots gave it a wide berth.

I am the vine, ye are the branches: He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit: for without me ye can do nothing.—John 15:3.

WHEN any church will inscribe over its altar as the sole qualification for membership the Saviour's condensed statement of the substance of both Law and gospel, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul and with all thy mind, and thy neighbor as thyself," that church will I join with all my heart and with all my soul.—Abraham Lincoln.

Neighbors See Body of Man Dead For Five Years

PHOENIX, Ariz. — Alfred R. Hall isn't lonely anymore—and his neighbors know now why he avoided life for five long years.
Police found Hall's withered body yesterday in the home where his wife died in 1947.
On the floors were five years' accumulation of newspapers and letters. A heavy layer of dust covered every room but the one in which he lived. There was no food.
Bank books showed the 73-year-old Hall had $12,000 in three Phoenix banks. A wallet held $130 in cash.
Yet the medical examiner said he died of malnutrition.
When he died sometime last week, Hall weighed 100 pounds. Evidence showed he lived for years on milk and bread.
A 1947 calendar was on the wall. Officers were called to investigate when Alfred N. Letarte, a neighbor, failed to get an answer to his knock on Hall's door. Letarte said Hall had permitted no one in the house, located in a fashionable Phoenix district, since his wife's death.
For five years he left home only once a day—to place flowers on the headstone of his wife's grave—Letarte said.
Police said Hall probably died Thursday. But in their report book they wrote:
"This man died five years ago."

Truman Says Churches Should Assume Lead

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — President Truman says churches should play a leading role in the conduct of government.

"It is from a strong and vital church — from the strength and vitality of all our churches—that the government must draw its vision," Truman said in laying the cornerstone of the new Westminster Presbyterian Church yesterday. "In foreign affairs, as well as in domestic affairs, the churches should hold up the standard and point the way," he added. "The only hope of mankind for enduring peace lies in the realm of the spiritual."

Services Set For Monday For Green

CONSHOCTON, O. — Conshocton says a last farewell today to its No. 1 citizen, Bill Green.
Green, American Federation of Labor president since 1924, died at 82 Friday of a heart ailment. His Baptist funeral service was scheduled at 2 p. m. Eastern Standard Time, in the large Grace Methodist Church so that as many townspeople, labor leaders and government officials as possible could pay their respects.

Heads of 13 AFL unions will be honorary pallbearers. But friends said the fact that would have pleased Green most is that members of the Conshocton Central Trades and Labor Council will be the active pallbearers.

Secretary of Labor Maurice Tobin will represent President Truman. Paul Herzog, chairman of the National Labor Relations Board, also will attend.

George Meany, secretary-treasurer and acting president of the federation, will serve as the 14th honorary pallbearer.

Others are William C. Hutcheson, president of the Carpenters; Matthew Wolf, Photo-Engravers; Daniel J. Tobin, Teamsters; Harry C. Bates, Bricklayers; William C. Birthright, Barbers; Charles MacGowan, Boiler makers; George Harrison, Railway Clerks; William C. Doherty, Letter Carriers; David Dubinsky, Ladies Garment Workers; Dan W. Warns Against Letting Down On Alertness

WASHINGTON (P)—Rep. Dewey Short (R-Mo.), chairman-designate of the House Armed Services Committee, cautioned today against "letting down our guard" if a truce is agreed upon in Korea.

The 54-year-old former college professor will head the important House committee after Republicans organize the new Congress Jan. 3. He is rounding out 20 years of service in the House.

"We must guard against the mistake we have made in the past—disarming too soon," he said in an interview. "While our ultimate goal should be world disarmament, we must keep strong as long as times remain as they now are."

"We must build up, rather than reduce, our military strength," he added.

Short, who describes himself as neither an isolationist nor a militarist, said he believes there can be substantial savings made in next year's and subsequent military budgets.

"We must cut federal expenses if we are to preserve our economy, which is our main strength," he declared. "With the military budget taking about 80 cents out of every tax dollar, it is obvious that it affords the place for the heaviest reductions."

But he emphasized that he doesn't favor budget-cutting at the expense of preparedness.

"I believe we can sharply reduce the military budget," he said, "without reducing the strength of our military forces by a single man or a single weapon or warplane. There is entirely too much waste now and by stopping it we can save billions."

FOR HAMMERING DOWN TAXES?—Rep. Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts, who is expected to be named Speaker of the House for the 83rd Congress, swings a double handful of gavels after a recent press conference. The veteran Republican congressman predicted a budget cut for the coming fiscal year, and held out hope for a reduction of taxes.

Enrollment Goes Up Across Nation

WASHINGTON (P)—There will be 27,533,054 public school students enrolled throughout the United States this school year, says the National Education Association.

The association, a national professional organization of educators, said in a report yesterday that this means an increase of about 821,000 over the last school year.

To handle this hike in enrollment, about 25,700 extra teachers are needed, and state and local units are spending 370 million dollars more than a year ago.

A shortage of teachers is indicated, the association said, adding they are still low paid in comparison with persons of other occupations.

Friends Sing Hymns For Wounded Youth

GREENSBURG, Pa. (P)—Two teenaged hunting companions sang hymns as 15-year-old James W. Gibson lay dying of a shotgun wound in a cold, wet stone quarry. The youth was wounded Saturday when he dropped a log, discharging one of the shotguns he and three pals had stacked while searching for wood to build a fire. The blast severed an artery in his leg. Coroner Joseph Check reported.

One boy ran to get a doctor. James asked his other two friends to sing some hymns. Shortly afterwards he died.

DUBLIN, Ireland (P)—A circus lion is back in his cage here today after a night on the town. While being changed from one

Southern Cal Heads Back To Rose Bowl

LOS ANGELES (P)—Once more it's going to be Southern California in the Rose Bowl, and hope-springing eternal, a lot of folks out here think this is the West's year.

You may recall that in six starts against the Big Ten since the war, the matter is recalled as seldom as possible.

The Trojans, No. 4 team in the nation in last week's AP poll, knocked off No. 3 UCLA, 14-12, before 96,869 in Memorial Coliseum Saturday to win the Pacific Coast Conference title and their 11th trip to Pasadena on New Year's Day.

TV's game of the week went to millions more over the country, but not too satisfactorily. Trouble on the line between the Coliseum and the relay center to the network was blamed by NBC for a picture which was frequently faulty and at times was lost altogether.

For some of those who didn't get too good a look, the Trojans will be on personal exhibition at South Bend this Saturday. There they meet Notre Dame in the traditional season-capper, seeking their tenth straight and the school's first perfect record since 1932.

Sometime today, SC's opposition in the Rose Bowl will be named—a choice between Wisconsin and Purdue.

SC's Coach Jess Hill said it did not make any difference to him whether Wisconsin or Purdue was picked—"it's the Coast's turn to win and we'll give 'em the battle of their lives."

MISSOURI PULLS AHEAD—Nick Carras, hard-driving Tiger fullback, gives Missouri a 1-touchdown lead as he bulls his way into the end zone from the 2-yard marker. The plunge by Carras capped a 48-yard Tiger drive and came with a minute and ten seconds left in the first half. Paul Fuchs kicked the extra point and the Tigers posted a 14-to-6 lead at half time, before going on to a 20-19 win. (AP Wirephoto)

Two Major Bowl Games Remain Open

NEW YORK (P)—Only two major bowl spots remained open today and both were expected to be filled before nightfall.

The Big Ten representative for the Rose Bowl will be either Wisconsin or Purdue while Alabama's opponent will be Navy or Syracuse.

All the others are filled. Southern California clinched the Pacific Coast nod in the Rose Bowl with a 14-12 victory over UCLA Saturday, while Georgia Tech and Mississippi will meet in the Sugar Bowl and Texas will play Tennessee in the Cotton Bowl.

Big Ten athletic directors were being polled for their choices for the West Coast assignments, and although the voting was in strict secrecy, the chances were that Wisconsin would get the assignment.

Whichever team goes, though, will rule the favorite as it would over almost any team in the country.

Wisconsin was held to a 21-21 tie with Minnesota Saturday while Purdue was eked out a 21-16 victory over six-times-beaten Indiana.

Until yesterday, the Orange Bowl was sitting back just watching and waiting. But Alabama's beautifuly contrived 27-7 triumph over Maryland made the selectors jump for the Crimson Tide.

Navy, beaten only by Maryland and Notre Dame, popped into the speculation late last night. The Middles have played in only one bowl game before—in 1924 in the Rose Bowl when they tied Washington, 14-14. What set off the speculation of Navy making the trip south was an unusual Sunday conference among high academy brass.

The Middles, idle Saturday, wind up their affairs against Army this week.

Syracuse, probably the class of the East, lost to Michigan State and Bowling Air Force Base, but powered through seven opponents, winding up with a 26-13 victory over Fordham Saturday.

The Gator Bowl—one of the younger bowls—has signed up Florida, Tulsa, Syracuse and Villanova have been mentioned as a possible opponent.

In Saturday's other top games, Michigan State, the No. 1 team in the country, cemented its position by closing the books with a 32-13 thrashing of Marquette; Tennessee, however, was held to a 14-14 tie by Kentucky in a surprise; Duke won the Southern Conference title by thrashing North Carolina, 34-0, and Oklahoma captured its fifth straight Big Seven crown with a 34-13 rout of Nebraska.

Bivins Confident He'll Knockout Charles Wednesday

CHICAGO (P)—Both Jimmy Bivins and his manager were bursting with confidence today that the Cleveland clouter will score an upset knockout victory Wednesday night over Ezzard Charles, former heavyweight champion.

"He's sharp," Bivins' manager, Alie Zak, declared as he watched the veteran box three rounds yesterday with two sparring mates. Bivins was even more confident. He said he wants a fight with Rex Layne "after I knock Charles out."

"Charles is the No. 3 contender and I'm No. 5," Bivins told reporters. "By beating Charles I can move up two notches. Layne is No. 2. He would be the last one I would have to eliminate in getting a shot at the title."

Charles sparred four rounds yesterday and Ray Arcel, his trainer, said he's satisfied with the former champs confrontation.

Sedalia Bowlers Placing In Tourney At Springfield

SPRINGFIELD (P)—The Konec Meat Co. team of St. Louis has rolled into the lead in the Class A team competition in the Missouri State Women's Bowling Tournament.

New leaders also took over in the all-events, the singles and the doubles events.

The Sedalias did not place in the team events but in a doubles class Effie Mosier and Virginia Nelson rolled 1,222 to start off in second place in that competition.

The doubles are led by Virginia Copeland and Bernice Tessmer of Union with 1,229.

In the singles, Ann Collier of Marshall, rolled 630 for fifth place at the present time.

Gremlins Lose To St. Mary's At Independence

The Sacred Heart Gremlins lost a hard game to St. Mary's Trojans at Independence, Sunday afternoon by a score of 63-49. The Sacred Heart "B" team also dropped their game to St. Mary's 50-24.

The Gremlins got off to their usual slow start and at the end of the first quarter were trailing 15-19. At the halftime period Trojans picked up and lead 30-25 and held a 55-34 lead at the end of the third quarter.

St. Mary's appear to be the team this season having defeated the Lillis High School of Kansas City recently by an impressive score. Lillis was third in the State in the 51-52 season.

Sacred Heart Wins Warsaw Tournament

The La Monte High School defeated Stover in the annual Warsaw Invitational Basketball Tournament, the past weekend. The Vikings scored 46 to 40 over Stover.

Excellent team play was provided by the Vikings with good passing, working in cooperation and quick on the rebounds. It was one of the cleanest games of the tournament with Stover going through the game without a foul while the Vikings had but eight.

Three Big College Teams Remain In Unbeaten Column

NEW YORK (P)—Three of the nation's top ranked football powers—Michigan State, Georgia Tech and Southern California—are among the 19 unbeaten, upped college teams.

Michigan State, No. 1 nationally, finished its season Saturday with a 62-13 drubbing of Marquette for victory No. 9. Second-ranked Georgia Tech downed Florida State 30-0 for No. 10 and can go to the head of the class by beating Georgia Saturday.

Southern California, No. 4, whipped UCLA, No. 3, 14-12 for its ninth straight and can make it 10 by turning back Notre Dame Saturday.

Only Georgia Tech and Peru (Neb.) Teachers have won 10 and Peru has finished its season.

Oklahomans Set For Big Week As A&M vs. Sooners

ST. LOUIS (P)—This is the week of the Big Game in Oklahoma, where football can crowd even elections and oil riches from conversational contention.

Next Saturday Oklahoma A. & M., a so-so team in the Missouri Valley Conference, greets Oklahoma, the 1-to-10-you-so team of the Big Seven, in the annual classic at Stillwater.

The Aggies are 3-5 for the year, and finished with a 2-2 Valley mark. Oklahoma, however, after a season-opener tie in the conference and an upset defeat by Notre Dame, came through once again to take the Big Seven championship.

Oklahoma A. & M. had a tough build up for the game last weekend, losing to Washington State of the Pacific Coast Conference, 9-7, on a third period field goal.

Conway, Jewell Leads Collegiate Football Scoring

NEW YORK (P)—Al Conway, hard-running halfback of William Jewell (Mo.), is almost certain to wind up as collegiate football's scoring leader for 1952.

Conway, with one game remaining on his team's schedule, paces the country's top scorers with 121 points.

William Jewell was idle last week-end but Conway maintained his 11-point edge over runner-up Mac Moore of Sam Houston State.

The latter school already has completed its grid season.

Billy Vessels of Oklahoma still tops the Big Seven scorers with 96 points, Willie Roberts and Tom Miner, both of Tulsa, are tied for the Missouri Valley lead with 72 points each. The Southwest Conference leader is Billy Quinn of Texas with 66 points.

Little Boy Gets

Silage Will Keep Milk Output High

Frequently the question comes up on how far a dairyman can go in substituting silage for other roughage.

Contrary to popular belief, milk production can be maintained on just as high level with silage alone as with silage and other roughages. In United States Department tests milk production, body weight and reproduction was normal in a group of test cows that were fed silage alone as roughage. The cows were on a concentrate ration of 30 parts ground corn, 20 parts wheat bran, 25 parts soybean meal and 25 parts linseed meal. This was supplemented with 19 to 37 grams of calcium and 120 grams of vitamin A per cow per day.

Since calcium and vitamin A are essential to good health and high production it is important that they be supplied in sufficient quantities. This can be done by providing calcium in the form of steamed bone meal and vitamin A as either a supplement or in green, leafy legume hay.

A mineral mixture of equal parts of steam bone meal and salt should be kept before the herd at all times. And in addition, the use of one pound of steam bone meal in 100 pounds of concentrate feed will assure your cows of getting all the calcium they need.

Eight pounds of number one alfalfa hay, three pounds of dehydrated alfalfa, six pounds of lespezeza hay, nine pounds of grass silage or 21 pounds of corn silage will supply the necessary vitamin A for cows in production. Poor quality alfalfa hay or lespezeza hay will increase the amount needed, based on quality.

Young calves and heifers up to two years can make good use of colostrum milk as a source of vitamin A in winter. With a little practice you can tell how much to give them without causing them to scour.—R. I. C.

Ewes Need Hay To Full Protein Diet Requirement

If you have a limited amount of legume hay to allot between bred ewes and beef cows, the better choice is to feed it to the ewes. Tests have shown that ewes don't do well on poor quality roughage even if it is properly supplemented.

For the first 100 days after breeding from 2 pounds to 2½ pounds of legume hay daily is desirable. To this can be added 1.5 to 1.8 pounds of non legume hay. In the event that the legume hay can not be made available about 3.5 pounds of non legume hay should be fed and one-fifth pounds of soybean meal added. This will not give the satisfaction that the ration with the legume hay will give. With any ration it's wise to keep before the sheep at all times 200 pounds bone meal and 100 pounds salt.

For the last 6 weeks of gestation the following ration is recommended—3.5 pounds of red clover hay or alfalfa hay, about 4 pounds of lespezeza hay, ½ pound corn and ½ pound of oats. Unless the quality of hay is good you will need to feed one-fifth pound of bean meal.

If you have no legume hay the following ration is suggested—3½ pounds of timothy hay, ½ pound of corn, ½ pound of oats and ¼ pounds of bean meal.

Protein is one of the big limiting factors in good lamb and wool production. This year with the small amount of good legume hay that is likely to be available, the lack of protein will be more evident than in previous years. Soybean, cotton seed or linseed oil meal can be used.

One other item that we want to mention—many ewes start through the winter with a lot of internal parasites. A treatment with liquid phenothiazine now, if not already done late this fall, will pay big dividends in feed and ewes saved. It is best to stay 30 days away from lambing with this treatment.

Forger's Memory Slips
GREAT FALLS, Mont. (P)—A man who said he didn't remember forging checks decided to place his confidence in the accuracy of the law enforcement officials here and pleaded guilty to the offense.

The 31-year-old man when arraigned on a charge of issuing a bad check told the judge, "To tell you the truth, your honor, I didn't know I wrote them."

The judge apparently thought otherwise. He gave the man five years.

Balanced Farming Notes

In Pettis County

By MERLE VAUGHAN
Associate County Agent

Olen Monsees Family To Represent County

Each year the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce sponsors a Balanced Farming Project in cooperation with the Missouri College of Agriculture. Counties in the trade territory are divided into six county districts.

A committee is selected in each county to name the two families who have made the most progress in carrying out their Balanced Farm Plan during the current year. Also selected is the family who has made the most over all progress on their plans since they started in the Balanced Farming program.

Plaques are awarded by the Chamber for the two county winners. A two day free trip to the American Royal is the recognition for the district winner. Those families selected for the local recognition are—Mr. and Mrs. John M. Sneed, Jr. of R. No. 5, Sedalia and Mr. and Mrs. Olen Monsees of Smithton. The Monsees will also represent Pettis County in the district.

Participation in the project is open to any farm family in the county who has worked out a Balanced Farming plan for their farm, so is not limited to members of the current association year.

J. U. Morris and Alice Mae Alexander were the second week in November winners of Extension workers visited the designated Balanced Farming winners in each county for the purpose of selecting district winners.

Two former Pettis County Agents, J. U. Morris and Miss Alice Mae Alexander comprised the visiting team for district 5 which includes Pettis County.

New Hybrid Compares Well
Last spring the Field Crops Department at the Missouri College of Agriculture invited 15 counties including Pettis to help them in the further testing of a promising new hybrid corn No. 843 that had been developed by the Missouri Agriculture Experiment Station. About a week of corn came to Pettis County and it was divided between two association members, R. M. Gorrell and Son of R. No. 3, Sedalia and C. A. Staples and Son of Houstonia.

Each farmer was to plant the corn in the same field with his own so he could compare it during the year. One immediate difficulty was the large size of kernels which made it difficult to get the same rate of planting in the different corn varieties.

I helped to harvest samples from the two farms recently. The plot at Staples had stalks at the rate of 6300 per acre and yielded 49.1 bushels with a 10.9 moisture test. This compared favorably with a 47 bushel yield and 6550 stalk count for a standard hybrid with a 10.31 percent moisture. The Gorrell corn had a similar yield (49.6 bushels) and a stalk count of 9650. The hybrid they compared with the 843 had a lower yield (42.8) but also a lower stalk count (7250).

The No. 843 was not as tall as the hybrid to which it was compared at Gorrells and apparently stood the wind better. In one space of 50 stalks on this other hybrid I counted ed 6 stalks that apparently were not too well rooted and a wind had caused them to lean nearly half way over to the next row.

This 843 also seemed a little slower maturing and to hand on the stalk a little better than the varieties to which it was compared.

Little Silage Spoilage
I had the opportunity the other day to see the trench silo at Olen Monsees. It is about 8 feet deep and there was only about 6 inches of spoilage on top. That 6 inches amounts to about 6 per cent of the total depth of the silage but if it were compressed in the middle of the silo it probably would not amount to over 3 inches or 3 per cent of the silage in the trench. At the silo meeting held at the Courthouse some months ago, C. E. Stevens, Extension Agricultural Engineer said normally the spoilage was not over 5 per cent and probably with normal rainfall it would have been less at Monsees.

Another association member reported that spoilage had gone down to a depth of about a foot in his silo. But again that amount wouldn't compare in quantity with a foot of material in the center of the trench.

See Good Wheat
Several good fields of wheat have been seen recently. When we shucked corn at R. M. Gorrells. He was telling me about discing the ground 4 times and then harrowing and rolling it ahead of the drill. He said they had enough moisture up that the ground looked black behind the drill.

The Gorrells seeded certified Pawnee wheat that I had located for them out in Kansas. I believe the grower told Mr. Gorrell that it made 40 bushels per acre for him this year.

John Sneed and Son have a field of wheat that was worked down similarly and then treated with Anhydrous Ammonia at the rate of about 30 pounds of nitrogen per acre which looks good.

Charles Romig has a 10 acre field on Highway 50, a mile east of Dresden that also looks good and I am sure the seed bed on it was well prepared.

Another Outlet At Arnetts
I mentioned earlier the construction of a terrace outlet at Loren Arnetts. Another outlet had been scheduled for 1953 but Loren decided to build it while the contractor was there recently. This outlet like the other one will carry nearly as much drainage from a neighbor as from Loren's own fields but will help him control it so it will do less damage to his bottom fields.

Record Food Supply Now Ready In US

The story of huge supplies of pork and lard and turkey which farmers in these United States have produced is being told to homemakers and other food buyers throughout the nation.

It's being told by the United States Department of Agriculture through its Plentiful Foods Program.

The idea is that the more people know about the large supplies and lower prices, the more of these foods they will buy. And it's going to take a heap of buying to whittle down the record large crop of turkeys, the near record stocks of lard, and the huge stock of pork from the many hogs farmers are selling right now.

The story of the big pork and lard and turkey supplies is seasonally new. The Plentiful Foods Program isn't.

Here's how it operates: Each month, production and supply experts in the Department of Agriculture tell the nation the foods will be most plentiful in the month ahead over all the nation. The list of foods is then reviewed in each part of the country, including the Midwest, to see if supplies and production justify classing the foods as plentiful in each area.

Then, representatives of the Department of Agriculture confer with members of the food trades to discuss ways to increase sales of the seasonally heavy supplies. Word of forthcoming supplies goes to larger food users such as restaurants and hospitals and factory lunchrooms. Moreover, the foods are recommended to schools in the National School Lunch Program.

But that's just part of the story. The Department of Agriculture sends word to radio and TV food editors, to newspaper editors, and to magazine editors who can tell homemakers about the plentiful foods and suggest ways to use them.

That's the promotional treatment that pork and lard and turkeys are getting right now. Homemakers and other users are hearing that farmers are selling seasonally heavy supplies of hogs—now—that the lard from those hogs are accumulated stocks is so plentiful that prices have slid to almost half of what they were a year ago.

They're hearing, too, about the record large turkey crop—that prices for turkeys this Thanksgiving are likely to be less than those of a year ago.

That's the story, and that's the program that mutually helps the farmer, the food distributors, and the food buyers.

TB Deaths Drop From 150,000 to 30,000 Since Seal Sale

When the sale of Christmas seals first started in the United States the number of deaths from tuberculosis was 150,000 a year. Now it has been cut to 30,000 a year.

The reason—a campaign of education about tuberculosis—what causes it, how you catch it, how to avoid it, how to find it early when it is more easily cured—and 6,000—lives have been saved in those years.

Your own life might be one that the Christmas seals has helped to save—but if it was yours or that of someone else—a good investment in saving lives is the buying of Christmas seals.

More Fishing Boats

PUSAN, Korea (P)—The Republic of Korea plans to build 1,450 fishing boats next year to help bolster its food supply. Eighty per cent of the $3,936,000 cost will be paid by the United Nations Reconstruction agency in Korea.

west of Sedalia which is operated by Ernest Schlobohm. Soon after the deal was closed Ernest told me they wanted to remain in the Balanced Farming Association another year with special emphasis being put on getting a water management system worked out for the new acreage.

The new tract has now been walked. Plans have been made to divide the 80 acres into 3 equal sized fields with a good pond to be located where the three come together. Only 4 terrace outlets will be required and all terraces will lead away from the entrance to the farm.

Shirley Klein Remakes Brother's Room While He's In Army; Comes Home This Week

When Don Klein comes home for Thanksgiving, from his Army base at Ft. Bliss, Tex., he is going to find his room has been completely refurnished and redecorated by his sister, Shirley. She did such a splendid job that she received high honors this year in the Pettis County 4-H home furnishings contest.

Five years a member of 4-H clubs, Shirley is 15 years old and she undertook the job of redecorating her brother's room this year as her number one project in her club work.

She started with the furniture, doing a lot of work on it, then made curtains and a matching bedspread, plus scarfs for the dresser and chifferobe, sanded the floors by hand, then varnished the floors and woodwork and finally papered the walls.

First job was on refinishing the bed and dresser—and it turned out to be a big task. The bed is one of the beautiful, old fashioned types with lots of ornate woodwork. It was a great undertaking to clean off the old varnish before a new coat could be put on.

From the dresser a large mirror was cut off and then the dresser was refinished and the mirror was hung on a closet door, providing a full length mirror for the room. Both straight chairs were also refinished, and so was the chifferobe. New hinges and hasp had to be put on the closet door, but Shirley got that work done well.

She made the drapes for the windows of material which matched the bedspread. Then she made a lamp from pieces of a toy bowling alley and made a wastebasket.

Don is expected home this week. He hasn't been home since July 23, and Shirley is anxious for him to get a glimpse of his "new" room.

They are children of Mr. and Mrs. Joe B. Klein, Smithton, and she is a member of the Ringen-Brushy 4-H Club.

Christmas Seals Bring New Hope To Many Families

One in every 37 Americans die from tuberculosis—but what about those who have TB and live? That is the dividend the American people receive from the dollars they spend on Christmas seals.

The money spent for Christmas seals helps prevent the broken homes, the economic chaos that follows the wake of tuberculosis. It not only means saving lives—it means giving the living a better chance.

Those little Christmas seals that serve as a decoration on Christmas cards, letters and packages help to pay for chest X-ray campaigns, through which the disease is discovered. Tuberculosis, when discovered early, is easy to cure. They help to pay health education to give life-saving knowledge, medical research to help remove TB as a menace to you.

The money spent for Christmas seals is winning the fight against tuberculosis, has helped to save the lives of over 6,000,000 Americans in the past 45 years.

It was in 1937 when tuberculosis was striking down someone in almost every family, when two or three might die with it in a family when they reached about 16. That year the idea of the Christmas seal was born—and year after year the money from the Christmas seals was used to help stamp out tuberculosis until today the thought of tuberculosis does not mean death—it means there is a chance to live—a chance because the little Christmas seal has made it so.

Eleanor Leftwich Redecorates, Furnishes Room as 4-H Project

Eleanor Louise Leftwich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cloyd Leftwich of Hughesville, is a member of the Longwood Neighbors 4-H Club and this year has been specializing in a home furnishings project which has centered in the refurnishing and redecorating of her own room.

Eleanor had a nice room when she started, but after the work had been completed the room was a model of perfection, comfort and beauty.

The year before Eleanor had painted the room and made new drapes so she had a head start on the project work for this year. She quilted a bedspread to match the drapes, varnished the floor, refurnished a chest of drawers, put a full length mirror on a door.

Out of fiberboard she made a waste basket and then she made needlepoint pictures, which she framed for the walls. These pictures, by the way, were out of the room for a week in August because she had them entered at the Missouri State Fair, where they received a blue ribbon award.

From the cash prize money she earned in her 4-H work, mostly with her prize calves, Eleanor purchased the mirror, a bedside table and dressing table lamps. She painted the little table to match the rest of the room.

Agent Advises Keeping Dairy Cows Comfortable

Here are some points on handling your dairy herd that may be of value to you. They are from County Agent Roy L. Coplen.

Comfortable housing and plenty of warm water will go a long way in keeping up milk production—especially important because of lower than usual quality of feed. If you have an old barn with cracks that cause drafts you can probably stuff these cracks. Drafts and dampness are the chief causes of mastitis in dairy cows. Such conditions tend to chill the cows udders, thus inducing mastitis.

Water is of more importance to dairy cows than some realize. You know of course, that water makes up a large part of milk. To produce well, cows must have large quantities of water. If the water is cold they won't drink as much as they need and what they drink must be warmed to body temperature by burning up feed.

The best way of making sure your cows drink enough water is by keeping a supply of warm water available at all times. The tank heater is one of the best ways of doing this. Also, the cows will drink more often if a wind break is built around the water tank on the north and west sides.

Conservation Calls For Teamwork

The urgency of protecting and improving our soil and water resources in Pettis County calls for the cooperation of all who are interested in keeping our farms productive and in making them more productive, says James A. Harvey, chairman of the Pettis County Production and Marketing Administration committee.

As the chairman sees it, this means more than just the farmers of the county working together. The support and cooperation of all the people in the county is needed. Our farms not only provide much of our food and fiber, but they are responsible for a good share of the business that keeps our towns and cities going.

Because the conservation of soil and water resources is so important to all, the chairman points out, Congress has provided the Agricultural Conservation Program as a means whereby all share in protecting, conserving, and improving the land. Through this program farmers are aided in carrying out essential conservation practices which otherwise would be left undone. The program also provides a means of utilizing the efforts of other agricultural agencies, he said.

Congress May Possibly Junk T-H Labor Act

WASHINGTON (AP)—Signs on Capitol Hill pointed today to a major rewriting of the nation's labor law by the new Republican 83rd Congress — possibly even junking the Taft-Hartley Act.

Rep. McConnell (R-Pa.), who steps up to the chairmanship of the House labor committee in the GOP-controlled Congress, told a reporter:

"We are certainly going to have changes in the labor-management relations law. I certainly anticipate them, but how they will be made I can't yet say."

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) wants to keep the law that bears his name, but revamp it through a series of amendments.

Strong feeling is reported to exist among some GOP lawmakers for completely rewriting basic labor-management legislation—and in so doing, bury for good the controversial association of Taft-Hartley with the Republican party.

Speculation has also been reported among some labor union officials on the prospect of an entirely new law emerging from the House Labor Committee under McConnell.

As the committee's ranking minority member in the last Congress, McConnell worked out a mine safety bill satisfactory to labor, operators and the government after getting all parties around a table to compromise their differences.

McConnell was reported to have in mind the same sort of an approach to working out a new labor-management relations act to take the place of Taft-Hartley.

McConnell, an investment banker and not a lawyer, has never disguised his belief that Taft-Hartley is too legalistic and obscure to be understood readily.

Woman Lawyer Has Hand In Big Dupont Suits

CHICAGO (AP)—An attractive, blue-eyed woman lawyer is sharing with two men the responsibility of presenting the government's antitrust suit against the du Pont family and its major financial holdings.

Miss Dorothy Hunt, an assistant attorney general, hasn't uttered a word yet during the historic proceedings which began last Tuesday in the federal courtroom of Judge Walter J. Labov. But she had a big hand in preparing the government's case.

The trial resuming today is expected to last six months.

Furthermore, Miss Hunt doesn't expect to do much talking. She is the Justice Department's legal backstop. She takes careful notes during court sessions and doesn't speak unless she believes her two colleagues have left unsaid something important.

Miss Hunt, who wears her hair in a boyish bob, declines to reveal her age to newsmen but says she was graduated from the University of Illinois in 1937, if that's any help. She lives in Winnetka, Ill.

A Justice Department employee since 1945, she worked more than two years helping to prepare the du Pont suit for trial. Her task was to investigate the histories of the du Pont family and the corporations in which the du Ponts have interests.

Her first government assignment took her to Nuremberg, Germany where she was assistant to Brig. Gen. Telford Taylor, who represented the U. S. in the prosecution of Nazi war criminals.

HER MAJESTY'S MAIL—Anticipating the ascension of Queen Elizabeth II to the throne, all equipages and facilities of the Royal Mail are receiving new insignia, the queen's cipher, "ER." The Earl of Selkirk, Parliamentary Private Secretary to the Postmaster General, above, has just unveiled the first postal box bearing the emblem, and is the first to dispatch a letter to the Queen in Her Majesty's Mail.

New Maine Governor Looks More Like Friendly Florist

AUGUSTA, Me. (AP)—A bespectacled florist—mild-mannered but determined enough to win every election in his 18 years of campaigning—will become Maine's governor in January.

It wasn't until he was 31 that Republican Burton M. Cross, now 49, decided to go into politics. His ambition as a youth was to become a lawyer. When family finances prevented that, he decided to help make laws.

Cross, who defeated Democrat James C. Oliver in Maine's September election, would like to at least "level off the trend toward centralization of government."

"If we follow a trend of turning back services from the federal government to the states and from state government to the towns," he has said, "local government once again would mean a lot more than it does now."

"Many problems can best be handled at the town level, where a closer supervision and a more thorough knowledge of local conditions may result in a better taxpayer's value for his dollar."

Cross' father died when he was 8. The boy was driving a pair of horses on the family farm here when he was 12. A track enthusiast, young Burt was a familiar sight running in Augusta's out-skirts or practicing field games.

When he was 31 he ran for the City Council and was elected. Subsequently he served as president of both the Council and Board of Aldermen. The Legislature was the next step.

Cross sat two years in the House and four in the Senate, where he was president in 1949 and 1951. As presiding officer, he seldom if ever became ruffled or snarled in parliamentary tangles. He ruled with impressive fairness.

The governor-elect enjoys fishing but doesn't go very often. Reports that he hauled a 6½-pound salmon from Sebago Lake are "somewhat magnified," he says. It was a 2½-pounder.

Mrs. Cross was Olena R. Moulton of New Hampshire. She and Cross met while she was visiting her grandparents in Vassalboro. They have three daughters and two grandchildren.

Italy Will Go Into Next Year With Big Army

ROME (AP)—The Ministry of Defense claims Italy will go into 1953 with the strongest army in Western Europe.

That army, the ministry says, will have a fighting firepower equal or superior to the equivalent number of British or American divisions.

Most of the new firepower has been gained by a switch, under the American arms aid program, from old British and Italian to modern U. S. arms.

American military observers and U. S. correspondents who have seen Italy's latest military parades and maneuvers report noticeable strengthening in Italy's armament—but have been nothing to equal either British or America division firepower.

These observers point out that even under arms aid, the Italian Army is still not getting America's latest model jet fighters, tanks, big Bazookas or automatic weapons.

The Defense Ministry, however, says conversion to these is "rapidly under way."

It reports that by the start of 1953, Italy will have 10 infantry divisions, two Alpine brigades and two armored divisions.

Foreign observers here say, however, that only six or seven of the 10 infantry divisions are actually up to NATO standard strength in arms.

The ministry gives this comparison:

"The Italian infantry division has 19,271 individual arms, 734 collective arms, 347 pieces of artillery, 10 armored cars and 18 light weapons carriers."

"The United States division is inferior to the Italian in individual arms, equal in artillery, but superior in collective arms and weapons carriers."

"Personnel for all three infantry divisions is the same—about 18,500 men."

Boy, 18, Kills Girl, Himself After Spat

OGDENSBURG, N. Y. (AP)—Eighteen-year-old Robert J. St. Denny shot and killed his 15-year-old sweetheart and then himself last night, police said, in the aftermath of a young lovers' quarrel.

Dist. Atty. Charles A. Bowers of St. Lawrence County said the girl, Jeanette Gilbert, was shot at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lionel T. Rucker, where the teenagers had been dinner guests.

Bowers said the two quarreled during dinner. Afterward, he said, St. Denny left, went home, returned with the rifle and fired through the living room window.

Then he shot himself.

Cuba Honors Gen. Reed For Disease Battle

WASHINGTON (AP)—The site of a great battlefield of medical history, where an American Army doctor found the cause of yellow fever, will be honored by the Cuban government.

The Army doctor was Maj. Walter Reed, who inspired a valiant band of American and Spanish volunteers in 1900 to face possible death in experiments that proved the dread disease was transmitted by mosquitoes.

It was learned yesterday that Cuba will formally memorialize the site of the tests, old Camp Lazear just outside Havana, at special ceremonies Dec. 3.
